I am a private practice psychologist who has spent my career helping people who have suffered due to multiple ACES. I have just written a booklet for adults with multiple ACES who get stuck repeating unhealthy patterns called SHOCKS NO MORE! I do presentations to providers teaching a new paradigm for helping.

We encourage all providers to complete the ACE interview, and have added an EMR form where that information is captured and everyone uses the language of ACES and resilience in assessing medical and mental health conditions of our patients. We have published a national curriculum about intervening with violence in primary care and it seems to positively impact both providers and patients.
